THE NATIONAL HARVEST LABOUR INFORMATION SERVICE

The Department of Education Employment and Workplace Relations contracted MADEC Australia to establish a National Harvest Labour Information Service to coordinate and distribute information on harvest labour in Australia. The service commenced on 1 July 2003.

As growers often have difficulty finding sufficient workers at harvest time, this service helps to match an itinerant pool of workers with variable seasonal work. A diverse range of organisations, growers and job seekers use this service.

The National Harvest Labour Information Service is operated by MADEC Australia.

Established in 1969 to explore the delivery of alternative adult education programs to groups or individuals in the community, MADEC Australia has established itself as a viable, community based organisation providing a range of services to regional communities. Employment and Harvest Labour Services are currently delivered by MADEC Australia sites extending across three states. This is supported by MADEC's Community College Unit which delivers accredited and non-accredited training.

The work of the National Harvest Labour Information Service includes:

Harvest Trail Website

www.harvesttrail.gov.au

The website provides comprehensive information about harvest opportunities, harvest locations, accommodation, transport and other requirements. Job seekers are referred to harvest vacancies listed by Job Services Australia Providers and growers.

The National Harvest Telephone Information Service

FREECALL 1800 062 332

This service operates weekdays from 8.00am to 8.00pm throughout the year, to answer queries related to harvest labour and to connect callers to appropriate providers.

Call Centre Operators are in contact with growers, labour providers and job seekers.

The National Harvest Guide

The National Harvest Guide provides job seekers with concise and comprehensive information about harvest work opportunities, working conditions, transport and accommodation. It is available free of charge to job seekers across Australia, both in hard copy and on the Harvest Trail Website www.harvesttrail.gov.au.

HARVEST FEEDBACK

If you wish to provide feedback regarding your experience on the Harvest Trail, or lodge a complaint about an aspect of the Horticulture Industry including wages, working conditions and/or accommodation, you have three options:

1. Complete a feedback form which is located on the front page of the Harvest Trail Website, www.harvesttrail.gov.au. Click on the tab on the left menu titled 'Feedback', complete the feedback form and press the 'Send' button. Please note that responses to emails can take up to five working days.
2. Send your feedback/complaint via email to the National Harvest Labour Information Service at nhlis@madec.edu.au
3. Contact the National Harvest Labour Information Service on FREECALL 1800 062 332.

If you are dissatisfied with how the NHLIS responds to your concerns or feel that you cannot discuss the issue with the NHLIS, you can contact the DEEWR Customer Service Line on 1800 805 260.

GENERAL INFORMATION

From grape harvesting in Berri, to mango picking in Darwin, each year thousands of people find work helping to bring in the fruit and vegetable harvests. The Harvest Trail gives them the opportunity to combine seasonal harvest work with travel around Australia.

The Trail offers a way for anyone eligible to work in Australia, be they young, middle aged or older to finance travel around the country. By working and following the Harvest Trail job seekers from Australia and overseas find a great way to maintain a fit and healthy lifestyle. They are able to meet people from around Australia and the world. They can travel and see Australia at their own pace while working and earning money.

There is of course not just one Harvest Trail, but many. Harvest workers can choose to circle the continent or follow the sun. They can go south from the wet tropics of Far North Queensland to Tasmania's Huon Valley or east from Western Australia's Margaret River to the Riverina in NSW. In some locations it is possible for workers to follow seasonal activities through much of the year on a trail within kilometres of their doorstep.

HARVEST WORK

Harvesting of fruit and vegetable crops around Australia can often involve working individually, in pairs or teams. The job can involve climbing ladders, standing, kneeling, laying or sitting while moving through the crop or undertaking a range of duties in a harvesting team. The work can be repetitious and tiring.

Crops are collected in various ways. Produce is often placed into buckets, tubs or lugs. It can be cut, clipped or picked and placed into a bag strapped to the shoulders. On some occasions produce can be harvested in bunches and placed onto trays or placed into bins.

Start time is usually from early morning and often the work is late into the day. Some evening and night time work can be required, especially in the packing of produce harvested earlier in the day. There is often work associated with the harvest in packing sheds, canneries and other processing plants or factories.

HARVEST CROPS

There are a variety of crops listed on the Harvest Trail. These are regularly being added to. The list of crops shows the towns where these crops are grown and the approximate time during the year that labour is required for harvesting or other crop duties.

There are other activities required for crop production besides the picking of produce. These activities are available on the Trail and include pruning and trimming vines and trees, thinning and trimming flowers and bunches and general crop maintenance work.

Most crops and harvesting jobs are very dependant on local weather conditions. The size of crops and when they are harvested are often controlled by local weather during the year. Considerable variations can occur and it is most advisable to check with local harvest services for correct information.

Some crops cannot be harvested whilst the produce is wet and many others are affected by very hot or extremely cold conditions to a point where harvest is not possible.

However, remember not to rely on general talk. ALWAYS contact a local harvest service for up-to-date and accurate information. The National Harvest Labour Information Service on FRECALL 1800 062 332, can help to connect you to these people.

TOWNS

The location of harvest work opportunities is listed by towns across the States. You should be aware that many of these areas are known locally by regional names such as the Riverina, Far North Queensland, the Barossa Valley and the Riverland. Always ask if you are unsure.

The information listed under the town names will assist you with travel, accommodation and important local contacts. Also check the smaller localities included in the town listing. Many crops are planted in large volumes in specific areas and as such harvest labour requirements can be spread over a number of towns in a region at the same time.

HARVEST WORK OPPORTUNITIES

Generally placement is easiest for job seekers that have their own transport and accommodation but both may be available at different locations, particularly during peak harvest times. Arrival at the right time is extremely important. Being early means limited work and unless you have money and wish to be a tourist for a short while do not arrive in a potential work town prior to the availability of work. Late arrival of course, can mean that many of the jobs are taken. Always contact the National Harvest Labour Information Service before moving to a harvest area.

WORKING CONDITIONS

Weather

Most harvesting jobs are done outdoors with little or no protection from the weather. Many jobs are in locations where extremely high temperatures are common.

Physical / Personal

Most harvest jobs require a reasonable level of individual physical fitness. The job can involve climbing ladders, standing, kneeling, laying or sitting while moving through the crop. Lifting is often a required activity. The work can be repetitious and tiring.

Times

When the crops are ready they must be harvested as quickly and as efficiently as possible. Many harvesting jobs require working six days each week, with Saturday often being the “day-off” to meet market requirements. Usually the long hours of summer daylight are used to advantage to harvest the crop.

Transport

Air, rail and bus services generally operate throughout Australia between state capitals and larger regional centres.

There are also regular local public services in many regions. Check the Towns list for local details or call the National Harvest Labour Information Service.

Remember that many jobs are located on farms some distance from the harvest town where public transport is often not available.

Where possible this guide will include information on the types of transport available to each town or region. Transport types are depicted by the following symbols:

Plane

Bus

Train

Car

Accommodation

Harvest workers with caravans, campervans or tents can be accommodated on many properties and there is commercial accommodation, caravan parks or backpacker hostels in most areas if on farm facilities are not available.

Some farms provide basic accommodation with beds, food storage and cooking facilities. You may need to provide your own bedding, but again check before you arrive.

Introduction

Where possible this guide will include information on the types of accommodation available in each town or region. Accommodation types are depicted by the following symbols:

Pay rates and conditions

Pay rates and calculations vary from crop to crop and may include:

- wages paid on a weekly basis.
- casual work paid on an hourly basis.
- piecework paid on a per unit harvested basis.
- negotiation agreed on a start to finish basis.

Rates and conditions are based on registered awards that are binding on the farmer and you. It is extremely important that you seek the correct information from local employment offices and farmers before commencing work.

WORKERS COMPENSATION INSURANCE

It is a requirement of law that all workers are covered for workplace injury by the employer. Make sure that you are properly instructed in all aspects of the work before commencing your actual employment. Take adequate care, through your own actions, of yourself and others in the workplace. Talk to the farmer about any matters which you are not sure about and ask for further instruction from the farmer if you are not clear. It is your responsibility to follow all health and safety instructions and to report any injury immediately to the farmer.

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY

Most matters of Occupational Health and Safety are regulated by law. Make sure that the farmer or work supervisor gives sufficient instruction into what is required of you in the job, particularly in matters of personal safety and safety of others in the workplace. Take particular notice of the instructions as they apply to your operations and how they apply to work colleagues. Make sure that your mind is clear about what is required of you when working particularly with, on, or around machinery. For further information and online service visit the DEEWR's website at www.deewr.gov.au.

SUPERANNUATION

Superannuation is a form of savings where money is set aside by you and/or your employer and invested for your retirement. Under the Superannuation Guarantee scheme, employers must pay workers' superannuation contributions of nine per cent of the employee's earnings base, but are not required to pay superannuation contributions where employees are paid less than $450 in a calendar month or aged 70 years and over.

Eligible temporary residents can access their superannuation (subject to withholding tax) when they permanently leave Australia. While they are in Australia they must be made aware of:

- the superannuation fund their employer is contributing to on their behalf
- the amount of superannuation they have
- that they should contact their superannuation fund before they leave Australia to check if they are eligible to access their superannuation benefits.

Most employees are able to choose their super fund. If you don't choose a super fund, your superannuation contributions will be paid into a fund chosen by your employer. While you can choose a fund at anytime, your employer has to accept only one choice from you in a 12-month period.

Further information on superannuation is available from the Australian Tax Office Superannuation Information Line: 13 10 20 or at the superannuation home page which is part of the Australian Tax Office web site at www.ato.gov.au.

This information is provided by Prime Super, a not for profit Industry Superannuation Fund. This article contains general information only and does not take account of your personal circumstances. You should obtain personal advice where appropriate. Prime Super (ABN 60 562 335 823) is issued by Prime Super Pty Ltd (ABN 81 067 241 016, AFSL 219723). A Product Disclosure Statement is available from the issuer by phoning 1800 675 839.

PRIVACY

Privacy for yourself and your employer is essential. Both you and the farmer have a direct responsibility to and for each other in all matters of privacy.

WORK REQUIREMENTS

Australian Tax File Number (TFN)
To work you will require an Australian Tax File Number.

Appropriate taxes are to be paid on all earnings by you. The rate will be determined by your background and the current working arrangements. Taxes are collected by the farmer and submitted to the Australian Taxation Office. If you fail to provide a TFN you will be taxed at the highest rate.

A Tax File Number may be obtained from the Australian Taxation Office. For further information and online service visit the ATO website www.ato.gov.au. You can link directly to this website site from any of the Towns and Crops listings via the Harvest Trail website www.harvesttrail.gov.au.

WORKING VISAS

If you are visiting Australia and you wish to work you will require a current and appropriate Working Visa. These may be obtained from the Department of Immigration & Citizenship (DIAC). For further information and online service visit the DIAC website www.immi.gov.au. You can link directly to this website site from any of the Towns and Crops listings via the Harvest Trail website www.harvesttrail.gov.au.

HARVEST TRAIL

To follow a "Harvest Trail" can be a great adventure as an individual, a couple or as a group.

A Harvest Trail can be anything you want it to be, from a short haul close to your homebase, or a long journey which may take a year to travel and work right around Australia. There are no formal arrangements required. Join in wherever you are and whatever the season might be. Have a good read of this guide and work out your own personal Harvest Trail. Look to take in work opportunities and to visit places of interest and history wherever you choose to travel.

Remember to ask first before moving on, use the FREECALL 1800 062 332 to gather your information.

BIOSECURITY

It is illegal to carry some fruits and vegetables into the Fruit fly free zones which exist in southern Australia. Produce must be disposed of before entering these zones which are found by visiting www.pestfreearea.com.au and www.fruitfly.net.au.

Fruit fly does not naturally occur in the production areas of southern New South Wales, northern Victoria and South Australia and is only ever found because someone has brought it in.

A fruit fly outbreak can close sensitive domestic and export markets leaving the fruit worthless.

Be aware of the zones as spot fines of up to $550 can be issued.

HANDY HINTS

- You require hard wearing clothing that will keep you well covered and protected against the weather conditions and the work environment.
- Maximum protection against the sun is vital. A suitable broad-brimmed hat is essential with your well covered clothing. You should use a sun screen with a protection factor of at least 30+. Sunglasses are also recommended.
- Footwear includes sturdy work boots or shoes.
- During the long hot days a good supply of water is required to prevent dehydration. A large 'cooler type' water bottle for use every day with a suitable lunch where required is suggested.
- Eat well and get rest each night for the day ahead. Harvesting crops is demanding work so pace yourself accordingly.
- Insects are very common in crops. They can be both annoying and dangerous. Always carry a strong effective repellent and use it regularly.
- Listen carefully to instructions given on the harvest and all aspects of health and safety advice. ALWAYS follow the instructions given.
- Be careful when handling produce and only harvest what has been specified. If you are in doubt, please ask!
- Having your own transport can be an advantage in obtaining a job.
- Always let people know of your situation when discussing possible work opportunities.
- Accommodation is often a significant problem in many of the small harvest locations.

- Make sure you talk with local agencies and farmers to ensure arrangements are made before moving to an area.
- Always let people know immediately if you have your own accommodation eg. tent, caravan or campervan.
- Make sure of your future work plans before you move on from your present location.

Call the National Harvest Labour Information Service FREECALL 1800 062 332 and seek assistance with making your plans.

ABOUT NEW SOUTH WALES

New South Wales is the site of Australia's first permanent European settlement which is now Sydney. The city is built on the magnificent Sydney Harbour, one of the most spectacular and identifiable harbours in the world, Sydney is now a bustling metropolis.

New South Wales is a large state with a climate ranging from sub tropical to alpine to semi desert. The Great Dividing Range to the east divides the many popular beaches, national parks and resorts of the east coast, from rich farming lands of the western slopes and the dry western plains that occupy two-thirds of the state. The mighty rivers: the Murray, Darling and Murrumbidgee, bring life and riches to the dry continent as they meander across the vast inland plains of NSW.

FORBES

Forbes is a small regional town in central western NSW lying on the banks of the Lachlan River, 386 kms west of Sydney. In 1817, the explorer John Oxley camped on the banks of the Lachlan, near to where the town is now situated, not knowing that gold would be discovered in the region in 1851 and changing the nature of the town forever. By 1861 much of the pastoral land had either been taken over by diggers or reclaimed by the Government. Bushrangers were active in the area, with Ben Hall and Frank Gardiner being the most famous. The character of Forbes is highlighted by many heritage buildings of significance, many of which were built in the late 1800's, including the beautiful Town Hall which was completed in 1891. Following the gold rush the region resumed its importance with vibrant pastoral and dairy industries as well as some recent developments in horticulture.

NOTES

ABOUT NORTHERN TERRITORY

Massive cattle stations for beef production have been the traditional backbone of the Northern Territory, however opportunities for work in horticulture have grown in recent times with production areas around Darwin, the Territory capital and Katherine in particular. Tropical crops are grown on fertile soils with water being sourced underground on many farms. The close proximity to the vast markets of South East Asia will see the region's production and the requirement for labour to grow.

Situated on the edge of a harbour bigger than Sydney's, Darwin is a beautiful, fascinating tropical city – a melting pot of people and cultures that prides itself in its unique and friendly laid-back lifestyle.

The tropical conditions around the "Top End" can be difficult to get used to with extremely trying conditions in high humidity time, known as "the wet". Adequate rest needs to be taken for the day ahead.

DARWIN

Darwin is a tropical city situated on the North Coast of Australia, and is arguably Australia's most cosmopolitan city, boasting a population made up of people from more than 60 nationalities and 70 different ethnic backgrounds. The city's multicultural mix is particularly highlighted by its many exciting ethnic cultural festivals and weekly food and craft markets. The city provides a diverse range of multicultural and traditional activities and rugged outback adventures in the outer Darwin region, from beachside markets to isolated waterfalls and wetlands. Darwin has evolved from its days as an incredibly laid back frontier town and while it still retains its relaxed charm, it has become a highly sophisticated city. The Northern Territory is a must for all travellers, whether it's ancient Aboriginal Paintings, crocodiles or simply its relaxed lifestyle. Many visitors are surprised to find that it has accommodation, eateries, clubs, pubs, museums and other amenities that are at least equal to, and often better than, what you'll find in the southern cities.

Darwin's traditional owners, the Larrakia people, are prominent and active members of the community and many still adhere closely to their traditional beliefs and customs.

Darwin is the main service centre for a wide range of industries headed by mining, offshore oil and gas production, pastoralism, tourism and tropical horticulture. The Port of Darwin is also the main outlet for Australia's live cattle export trade into South East Asia.

Also includes Berry Springs, Humpty Doo, Noonamah, Marrakai

Queensland

ABOUT QUEENSLAND

A vast range of crops are grown in Queensland, from cooler climate speciality crops in the southern ranges to the tropical crops of the north and the broad acre crops grown on the massive western plains of the State's inland. The coastal strip from south to north provides an abundance of horticultural work opportunities with much of the produce picked, packed and shipped fresh to markets in Australia and overseas. Grain and cattle production is centred mostly in the outback regions where conditions are often harsh, but the experiences are worthwhile. The capital, Brisbane is in the far south, located on the banks of the Brisbane River. The resort and holiday regions of the Gold Coast and the Sunshine Coast are to the south and north of the city. The Great Barrier Reef, one of the great wonders of the world is located off the Queensland coast and attracts thousands of visitors each year, as do the many islands adjoining the coastal areas which offer spectacular fun in the sun.

EMERALD

The town of Emerald lies on the Nogoa River west of Rockhampton. Whilst largely a cattle growing area, sorghum grown more than 50 years ago proved the fertility of the land. The construction of the Fairbairn Dam south of the town in the 1970's allowed the area to grow cotton and most farmers changed to the new crop. The region now supplies 25 per cent of Queensland's cotton. The area has recently become popular for the growing of table grapes and melons due to Emerald's northerly latitude.

GATTON

Situated in the heart of the rich and fertile Lockyer Valley, Gatton was initially a stop over point for the mail and coach service between Brisbane and the Darling Downs. The region was one of the first areas of settlement in Queensland and has traditionally been a producer of fine cattle and a wide range of vegetable crops, tomatoes and melons. Canning of produce in the Gatton area provides an extra level of employment in the region as do the many cattle and horse studs which are situated in the rich valley.

GIRU

The rural township of Giru is located south of Townsville, originally a siding on the Townsville-Ayr sugar tramway, Giru has since developed into a significant link in the north Queensland cane chain. In fact, the mill in this Haughton River town regularly records an annual crush of about 3.25 million tonnes, the highest in the Southern Hemisphere. How long Giru can retain its individuality is in question as the rapidly expanding Townsville metropolitan area of Thuringowa City creeps ever southward and threatens to engulf it. In the meantime Giru retains its independence and its position as a stop on the rail service which operates between Brisbane and Cairns.

LAIDLEY

Laidley is ideally situated less than one hour's drive west of inner city Brisbane in the Lockyer Valley – "The Valley of Variety". Laidley has long been regarded as "Queensland's Country Garden", having much more to offer its residents and visitors than an abundance of fresh fruit and vegetables. Laidley is one of the fastest growing rural shires in Australia but its natural beauty and lifestyle has been protected by careful planning.

The 1880's saw the first settlers working the logging camps and establishing the dairy industry. More recently farmers have turned to vegetables and fruit with the majority of Australian beetroot being grown in the Laidley district. The Lockyer Valley is one of the "top ten most fertile farming areas in the world".

MUNDUBBERA

Mundubbera is located on the banks of the Burnett River, 390 kms north west of Brisbane and 249 kms north west (inland) of Maryborough. Initially a cattle region for both beef and dairying, irrigation from the Burnett River now supports a large citrus industry (especially mandarins) in the area which includes Gayndah and Eidsvold.

Much of the work is done during the hottest part of the year so great care needs to be taken to protect against the elements. Whilst it is often very hot during the day, the nights can be cold so warm clothing is also essential. As Mundubbera is so isolated it is vital that you have definite employment before making the journey to the area.

Stanthorpe is part of the Granite Belt, so named for the remarkable landscape of protruding granite. The area boasts four spectacular national parks and numerous wineries.

At an altitude of 950 metres, Stanthorpe is the coldest place in Queensland and produces a diverse range of fruit and vegetables including apples, pears, stonefruit, tomatoes, capsicums, grapes and many ground crops such as lettuce.

Work can be physically demanding and job seekers therefore need to be reasonably fit and able to work outdoors in hot conditions for long periods. Orchard work will often require the use of ladders and vegetable work consists of bending. Workers will require sturdy footwear (not sandals or thongs), hats, long-sleeved shirts and a large water bottle.

ABOUT SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Irrigation farming and dryland cropping, particularly in the east of the State and dryland stock production in the State's north are the production features of South Australia. The Murray River provides wealth through irrigation of citrus, grapes and stonefruit in the east as it enters the State and sweeps southwards to the sea. Australia's premier wine regions of the Barossa and Clare Valleys are mid state to the north of Adelaide with the Southern Vales area south of the city and close to the coast. Market gardens are located on the northern plains with the State's grain production based to the north and west. Adelaide, the State capital, is situated on the Torrens River and nestles between the Mount Lofty Ranges and Holdfast Bay.

TANUNDA

Tanunda is located in the heart of the famous Barossa Valley, Australia's premier wine region. Australia's largest concentration of wineries and vineyards are through the Valley. Originally settled by Germans, who called the town "Langmeil", the region maintains a strong German influence. The name Barossa was given by the then Surveyor-General Colonel Light, but incorrectly spelled from the Spanish word "Barrosa", meaning "Hill of Roses", a site of a battle in Spain in which Colonel Light had participated.

The wine industry is dominant and has made a name for itself around the world for the bold table wines which are made in the region. A fine range of arts, crafts, antiques and smallgoods are supported by the strong tourist industry in the area.

ABOUT TASMANIA

Horticulture is a vibrant and flourishing industry in Tasmania and involves the production of cherries, hops, vegetables, grapes, apples, berries, walnuts and stonefruit. The fertile Valleys of the Coal River, Huon Valley and Derwent Valley in the south; Meander Valley, Tamar Valley and Dorset Region in the north; and Mersey Valley, Leven Valley and Circular Head district in the north west are responsible for much of the State's developed horticulture. Cultural changes have seen the production of wine and other fruit crops as well as herbs in recent times.

The Tasmanian wine industry is well regarded for the subtlety of its many cool climate varieties. Forestry has been significant historically and the husbandry of high quality sheep and cattle is also important to the economy of the State. Hobart, the State capital, is located in the south and is situated on the banks of the Derwent River, where every year comes to a close with the finish of the world famous Sydney to Hobart yacht race at Constitution Dock, in the heart of the city. For information about Tasmania visit www.discovertasmania.com.

BURNIE

Burnie is a north coast town originally vital as a timber port but now as the largest container terminal in Tasmania. It is located 152 kms north west of Launceston on the Bass Highway. Much of the State's produce leaves from Burnie to make its way to the mainland or to the markets of the world. Logging of the dense local timber provided building material for the young colonies of Melbourne and Adelaide.

Tin was discovered in 1871 and mining expanded the town. Burnie began to grow rapidly as a major port for the region. Agricultural products, tin and timber were the main exports and when a paper mill was established in 1937, there was a massive expansion of the port and the town. Horticulture remains a major production feature of the area.

Where can I stay?

There are hotels, motels, caravan parks and a backpacker hostel in town.

DELORAINÉ

Deloraine is a charming historical town located 51 kms west of Launceston on the banks of the Meander River. The town reflects its early history in its many colonial buildings while the surrounding area is used for mixed farming and dairying. Deloraine is the major commercial centre of the Meander Valley and there are daily bus services from Launceston to the town.

Harvest workers will need adequate protection from the weather which is variable during the day. Rainy conditions can sometimes interrupt harvest and workers are advised to have enough cash to support themselves during times of inclement weather.

DEVONPORT

The north coast town of Devonport is located on the mouth of the Mersey River, 98 kms to the north west of Launceston, following the Bass Highway. A vibrant town, the port is the major daily entry point for vehicular traffic travelling on the "Spirit of Tasmania" ships, to and from Melbourne. Devonport has a unique history, especially as the home town of the former Tasmanian Premier and only Tasmanian Prime Minister of Australia, Joseph Lyons. The port's lighthouse, which was completed in 1899, stands on Mersey Bluff and is part of the National Estate Register. The fertile soils of the surrounding area produce fine stonefruit, berries, potatoes and other vegetables.

HUONVILLE

The southern Tasmanian town of Huonville is located on the Huon River 39 kms south of Hobart. Huonville is the centre of Tasmania's major cherry and apple producing area and historically the area has also been a substantial timber and hop producer. In recent times many of the older apples have been removed and the area replanted to newer apple varieties as well as large corporate plantings of cherries, cool climate grape varieties and strawberries.

The spectacularly beautiful Huon Pine is grown in the region and has been traditionally used for boat building as well as in decorative timber work. The region is also a major area of interest for the many tourists who visit Tasmania each year.

Harvest workers will need adequate protection from the weather and the crop environment. Cold, rainy and sometimes squally conditions can often interrupt harvest in the south of the State.

LAUNCESTON

The city of Launceston is the second largest in Tasmania and lies at the head of the Tamar River. Initially set up as a military command post, the town has a large number of historically significant buildings. Port facilities were recognised, developed and used for the early shipments of wool and wheat grown in the area. Whalers and sealers also used the port in the early days. Some mining was carried out, especially for tin and the town even had its own stock exchange. As the town grew, it was built around many beautiful parks and gardens and today is often referred to as the "Garden City".

The region has been noted for the production of apples and in more recent times grapes, with the Tasmanian wine industry flourishing.

RICHMOND

The historic town of Richmond is located on the Coal River, 27 kms to the north east of Hobart. There are more than 45 buildings in Richmond listed on the National Estate Register, with the most famous of the town's attractions being the Richmond Bridge over the Coal River, which was completed in 1825. The area was explored soon after European settlement in 1803. Land was subsequently granted to settlers and by 1815 the area was well known for the production of grain with a mill being built to process the grain for the thriving colony. A gaol was established with convicts providing the labour for the construction of the town's buildings, built in the style of the Georgian era.

In recent times the area has flourished with wine production, stonefruit and berry crops. The region is well known for the subtle flavours of their produce, ripened slowly in the cool climate which prevails in the area.

ABOUT VICTORIA

Victoria's fertile soils and access to water for irrigation confirms the State as a great food source for the nation. The Murray River, which forms the northern border with NSW, provides water for the production of a range of fruit, vegetables and stock. The rangelands and slopes allow cool climate cropping with the vast plains of the west providing most of Victoria's wool and grain production. Melbourne, the second largest city in Australia, on the banks of the Yarra, is regarded as the sporting and cultural capital of the nation. For information about backpacking in Melbourne and Victoria, visit www.backpackvictoria.com.

It is illegal to carry some fruits and vegetables into the fruit fly free zones which can be found by visiting www.pestfreearea.com.au and www.fruitfly.net.au. If travelling into the Western and Eastern regional areas be aware of the Greater Sunraysia Pest Free Area and the Fruit Fly Exclusion Zone. On-the-spot-fines of up to $550 can be issued.

BAIRNSDALE

Bairnsdale is the regional and commercial centre of East Gippsland. The Bairnsdale area is famous for its beautiful forests and rivers, extensive inland lake system and coastline, quaint villages and alpine regions.

Work in the Bairnsdale area occurs throughout the year, with the majority of opportunities from Spring through to Autumn. In the warmer months, take care to keep hydrated and wear clothing to protect you from the sun. You will need to have a reasonable level of fitness as the work includes picking, packing and some bending, especially for asparagus. You will generally require your own transport as there is no public transport service available from Bairnsdale. In addition, Bairnsdale hosts two major food producers, Vegco and Patties.

ECHUCA

Echuca, originally Victoria's largest inland port, is located on the banks of the Murray River, 205 kms north of Melbourne. Famous for its massive riverside wharf, which originally was five times the present size, it was built at three distinct heights to cater for the rise and fall of the river and to allow the loading and unloading of river freight to the railhead in town. The river trade expanded during the 1850's, as did the development of the Australian interior.

The waterfront area is still maintained in the period of the paddle steamers, being one of the town's main tourist attractions. The area was used as a natural river crossing for cattle farmed in the Riverina of NSW being sent to market in Melbourne. Milling of the local Red Gum became one of the key industries until after WWI when soldier settlement provided opportunities in dairying, milk processing and fruit growing. In recent times wineries have developed around Echuca.

MILDURA

Mildura is a major regional city on the Murray River. It is located in the far north west of Victoria and is the centre of the Sunraysia region. Mildura and the surrounding district is an oasis in the desert and a very popular riverside tourist resort. Mildura was, with Renmark (SA), one of the first Irrigation colonies set up in the late 1880s through the vision of Alfred Deakin, who became Australia's second Prime Minister. Deakin encouraged the development of the semi arid region into fruit production through irrigation. The produce had to be dried to allow it to be transported to the distant markets by paddle steamer to Echuca and then by rail to Melbourne.

As well as a popular tourist destination, Mildura boasts the production of a major proportion of the nation's wine grapes, dried fruit and citrus. It has large wineries and processing plants for its produce. Mildura is 550 kms north west of Melbourne, 1050 kms south west of Sydney and 450 kms north east of Adelaide.

ROBINVALE

Robinvale is located on the Murray River north west of Melbourne. Originally a wheat growing area, the town developed when the railway arrived in 1924. Many street names were associated with theatres of war from WWI, and the town was named after the son of one of the town's founders who was killed whilst serving in France as an airman. The connection with ex-servicemen continued with the further development of the area through soldier settlement after WWII, when irrigation farms were set up to grow vines, citrus, fruit tree crops and vegetables. The area now is a significant producer of table grapes and vegetables.

SHEPPARTON

Shepparton is the hub of the Goulburn Valley and the centre of the vast Goulburn Valley irrigation district, often called Victoria’s “fruit bowl”. The city has a good industrial base and its close proximity to Melbourne, just two hours south, makes it an ideal tourist area.

Shepparton has many dairies surrounding the town but is world famous for the large plantings of pome and stonefruit. Major development occurred after WWI as the dairies were supported by milk processing and the fruit industry established canneries and packers for their products. Another expansion occurred through closer settlement during the 1960’s as the requirement for fruit for Australia’s growing population increased.

Shepparton is surrounded by rich fertile alluvial plains and together with extensive irrigation systems, diverse agriculture has been successfully grown, requiring thousands of workers each year to harvest the crops.

Includes Ardmona, Bunbartha, Congupna, Grahamvale, Invergordon, Kialla, Kyabram, Merrigum, Mooroopna, Murchison, Lemnos, Orrvale, Shepparton East, Tatura, Toolamba and Undera. See also Cobram and Echuca.

SWAN HILL

Swan Hill is a major town on the Murray River. It is in the Mid-Murray area of Victoria, on the eastern edge of the Mallee country in the north west of the State. One of the historical river towns of the Murray and a former large port, Swan Hill is now a vibrant city. A diverse range of fruit and vegetables as well as significant amounts of wool, grain and stock are produced in the area. A large tourism industry based on the river and river history is featured around the city, with the centre piece being the Folk Museum and the Paddle Steamer Gem.

Includes Beverford, Koraleigh, Lalbert, Lake Boga, Moulamein, Nyah, Piangil, Ultima, Vinifera and Woorinen.

Vinifera is 25 kms north of Swan Hill. A small riverside settlement, the Vinifera area produces a range of horticultural produce including stonefruit, grapes, citrus and vegetables. Lake Boga is located 17 kms south of Swan Hill and was vital as a RAAF "Flying Boat" Station during WWII. Lake Boga now has a wide range of horticultural crops grown in the area as well as supporting a tourist industry based on the lake's current water sport activities and the history of the RAAF base, particularly the Catalina flying boat.

Woorinen is 10 kms west of Swan Hill. A small riverside settlement, the Woorinen area produces a range of horticultural produce including stonefruit, grapes, citrus and vegetables all irrigated from the nearby Murray River.

How do I get there?

Lilydale is the gateway to the Yarra Valley and is 40 kms north east of Melbourne following the Maroondah Highway. It is also the terminus of the Melbourne metropolitan rail service and public transport through the Yarra Valley beyond the rail system is irregular, so your own transport is desirable.

Where can I stay?

The Valley offers a range of accommodation for working holiday makers including resorts, motels, hotels, self contained units, backpacker hostels, caravan parks, B&Bs and guesthouses. Jobseekers with tents can be sited on some properties as there is limited on farm accommodation.

ABOUT WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Australia's largest State has intensive development in the south west corner with a range of crops being produced, including a premium wine area on the south western coast. A large development following the establishment of Lake Argyle on the Ord River, has centred in the Kimberley region of the north of the State, with other production areas for horticulture in the Gascoyne region. There is grain production in the rangelands to the east and south of the State capital, Perth.

Perth is located on the banks of the Swan River, which has provided opportunities for grapes and vegetable production close to the city. Perth has grown as a result of successful mining carried out throughout the State. Grain harvesting opportunities are available in the Great Southern and Southern Wheatbelt regions south east of Perth.

DENMARK

Denmark is located on the banks of the Denmark River on the south coast of Western Australia, 50 kms west of Albany and 400 kms south of Perth. With settlement in 1895, timber mills were established to mill the giant Karri trees grown in the area. The timber industry was only short lived as the timber stocks declined rapidly and many participants turned to dairying on the cleared land. In recent times the culture in the area has diversified into viticulture, horticulture, tourism and the husbandry of sheep, beef, dairying and pork production. Smaller scale timber production, tree farming, berry crops and some cottage industries are carried out in the region.

KUNUNURRA

Kununurra is 3228 kms north of Perth and 780 kms south west of Darwin. It is 1042 kms north of Broome, the closest WA town to Kununurra. It was initially set up as the construction centre for the damming of the Ord River, one of the country's largest irrigation projects. The rich and black alluvial soil of the Ord Valley has been useful for growing many horticultural crops but the area flourished with the building of the Lake Argyle Dam, completed in 1972. Large scale plantings of Indian sandalwood now dominate the area.

Dry season is April to October.

NOTES

Multiple horizontal lines for taking notes.

WOOL HARVEST

Wool harvesting involves the shearing of sheep and work involved in the preparation of wool for sale. Wool harvesting occurs in all states of Australia and in many states wool harvesting staff, that are prepared to travel, can find work for most of the year.

The wool harvesting industry offers a challenging, physical and interesting lifestyle, often involving extensive travel and living away from home for short periods. Young workers view working visits to regional and remote areas of Australia as an attractive benefit.

Wool harvesting is a global industry that also opens up opportunities for participants to travel and work in over 40 countries.

There are good financial returns for competent shearers, wool classers and wool handlers during the shearing season.

The four main occupations in the wool harvesting industry are shearing, wool handling, wool pressing and wool classing.

Whilst most new entrants to the industry will begin as wool handlers, workers will generally choose to follow one of two main pathways early in their career.

The first pathway leads to becoming a wool classer and the second leads to becoming a professional shearer. A career in this industry can also lead to managerial and other related occupations.

The industry provides different opportunities depending on how people are employed. Workers may be employed directly by a wool grower, or be part of a shearing contract team. Wool classers are also employed within Australia's service network of small and large wool brokers.

There is a relatively high turnover of shearers and woolhandlers because of the physical work involved and the requirement to spend periods away from home. This in turn creates good employment opportunities for young people.

With 5000 shearers and a similar number of wool handlers needed full time for shearing and crutching each year, as well as similar figures for part time employees, there is always a need for new entrants to the industry.

Many wool grower's sons and daughters work and study in the wool harvesting industry to gain skills in sheep classing, selection and breeding, and wool classing. This can provide off-farm employment that helps in supplementing farm income. This group forms a significant proportion of that working in the Australian wool harvesting industry.

Wool handling work provides an excellent starting point for those interested in working in the wool harvesting industry. In this job you will work as part of a team with shearers, wool classers and other shearing shed staff.

Wool handling skills are predominately learnt on the job. A wool handler is skilled and trained in a range of tasks, including:

- picking up fleeces
- sweeping the board
- skirting and rolling fleeces
- penning up sheep
- pressing wool in bales.

Resources are also available to assist itinerant workers to develop a basic understanding of the tasks and responsibilities required of wool handlers and other entry level shed staff.

Shearers remove wool from sheep and perform the essential tasks that improve the efficiency of their shearing.

Their tasks include:

- shearing sheep
- maintaining shearing equipment
- working as part of a team.

Professional wool classers move from shed to shed, directing wool handlers in the preparation of wool to create lines of uniform quality for sale.

To do this they require detailed knowledge of the characteristics of a broad range of wool types and good supervision and team leadership skills. Work undertaken by professional wool classers includes:

- Supervising wool handlers
- Determining the classing strategy for the wool clip

Wool harvesting employment opportunities can also be found on the following websites:

- Woolsearch
www.woolsearch.com.au
- Shearing Contractors Association of Australia
www.scaa.org.au
- Western Australian Shearing Contractors Association Employment Register

The following information provides a quick overview of wool growing regions by state.

Queensland

Wool is harvested west of the Great Dividing Range from Julia Creek in the north to the NSW border in the south.

New South Wales

Wool is harvested over a vast area of the state from the Great Dividing Range in the east to the South Australian border in the west. Peak harvest times are from June–December and February–May in many regions across the state.

Victoria

Wool is harvested in nearly all regions of the state with a large concentration in the west of the state around Hamilton. Peak harvest times start from July–December and from February–May.

Tasmania

Wool harvesting is carried out throughout Tasmania with the peak time for wool harvesting from May–December each year.

South Australia

Wool is harvested over a large area of South Australia in all areas south of Coober Pedy. Given the size of the state, wool is harvested at various times with the majority of wool harvested between July–December and from January–May in the northern pastoral regions.

Western Australia

Wool is harvested in most regions south of Carnarvon with shearing taking place approximately eight months per year in most regions. The Great Southern region is a key wool growing area with shearing taking place September–March each year.

GRAIN HARVEST

The grain harvest is extremely important to the Australian economy and is a year-round industry with crops such as wheat, barley, oats, chickpea and canola grown in the winter months and sorghum, maize sunflower, soy and mungbeans grown throughout the summer months. Harvest production can overlap in the regions and itinerant labour is highly sought after.

The number of vacancies and length of employment varies according to the size of the harvest and harvesting programmes of growers. As with any harvest, the size and production depends on the weather; not enough rain throughout the growing season can mean no or very little crop production and too much rain at harvest time can get in the way. The harvest is continually monitored by farmers and lasts for approximately six to eight weeks in each of the harvest regions.

Harvest workers can be a mixture of travellers, backpackers, retirees, school and university leavers and farmers.

Work Available

Positions in the grain harvest are open to anybody who is legally eligible to work in Australia and jobs include Grain Samplers, Weighbridge Operators and Receival Point Operators. It is essential that workers are physically fit; capable of working at heights and in a dusty environment, team orientated and have basic computer skills.

New South Wales

The NSW grain industry can be categorically split into two main areas, being the northern and southern wheat belts. The hub of the northern wheat belt has long been considered to be Moree, a town in the north western aspect of the region. Sorghum is the main summer crop grown in the northern wheat belt with an estimated 95 per cent of Australia's total plantings of sorghum grown in the regions of Gunnedah, Narrabri, Inverell and Moree.

The southern wheat belt comprises the central and southern regions of NSW. Grain production in the south centres strongly around winter crops such as canola, barley, oats and pulses. Whilst the majority of summer crops are grown in the north, the southern region does sow rice during the warmer months.

The Central Division includes Dubbo, Narromine, Trangie and Warren.

The Northern Division includes Goodiwindi, Gunnedah, Hay Inverell, Moree, Mungindi, Narrabri, Spring Ridge, Thallon and Wee Waa.

Queensland

Queensland's grain harvest is predominately grown in Southern and Central Queensland where the State's major winter crop wheat is grown. With production averaging approximately one million tonne, the crop is well suited to a wide range of soils, particularly deep clay soils with high moisture-holding capacity. These regions are the nation's main areas for the production of Australian prime hard (APH) quality wheat. Broadacre field crops sustain the economic, social and cultural fabric of many Queenslanders. The broadacre field crop industry is estimated to be worth about $675 million (excluding sugarcane). The industry employs thousands of people on the land, in food processing, and in other areas along the value chain.

South Australia

Typically the harvest commences at the top north west part of the state at the end of September and moves east across the other regions concluding in the south east in mid January. The work includes general labouring and workers operate the weighbridge weighing trucks, sampling grain and completing all paperwork as required; the majority of employees work as grain handlers at the silos and bunkers. Weighbridge and sampling employees need to be computer literate and work in air conditioned buildings, grain handlers work outside on site.

Victoria

Victorian grain growers have a reputation for producing grains of a consistently high quality. Eighty per cent of Victorian grain is produced in the Mallee and Wimmera regions, with wheat representing about 50 per cent of Victoria's grain production. Together with barley, cereal production represents 80 per cent of broadacre crops grown in Victoria. However over the past decade there has also been a major expansion of grain production in the high rainfall region of South West Victoria. Increased productivity and diversification of crops in traditional areas and expansion into new cropping areas will increase the available casual work in the grain industry across Victoria.

Western Australia

Casual grain harvest work is available in Geraldton and surrounding areas in September, with other localities in the wheat belt commencing from October. Approximately 1200 seasonal workers are required for the grain harvest throughout WA, although the number of vacancies vary according to the size of the harvest.
